

WET NOSE

Animal Rescue centre

This is Maximus after reconstructive surgery to his nose due to it being chopped off with a Panga! He now lives a happy, healthy life with his new family.

Your Will

Most of us try to avoid thinking about the day that we are no longer here, even though we know that no-one lives forever. However, if you are an animal lover you can leave your legacy of love behind.

By including Wet Nose Animal Rescue Centre in your will, you can help us to continue rescuing abused, abandoned and neglected animals for years after you have passed on.

Why Wet Nose?

Wet Nose Animal Rescue Centre has a Right to Life policy, which means that we do not put animals to sleep unless they are suffering and cannot be saved. Instead, we love them and care for them until we can find a forever home; no matter how long it takes!

Wet Nose does not receive any state funding and rely only on the animal loving public to help us fight our daily battle against abuse and ignorance.

Our task is so big and the need for animal rescuers is increasing every day. Economic pressure, ignorance, cruelty and lack of education at school going level are just some of the challenges that we face. Your bequest, no matter how big or small, would help us to educate children regarding responsible animal ownership, help to equip our clinic to better take care the animals in our shelter, to afford proper veterinary care for injured and neglected pets, to inoculate and de-worm, to help eradicate unwanted litters through sterilisation, and help to keep our Inspectors on the road whilst doing what they do best.

Before and After Eeyeore was left to sick,
emaciated and left to die. Today
she is a happy girl living as a

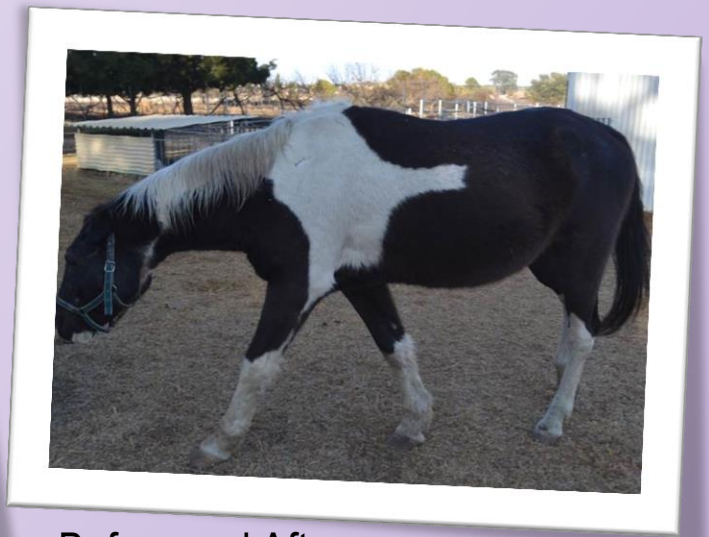

Wet Nose busy educating our next generation regarding responsible pet ownership

How do I include Wet Nose in my Will?

It is really very simple to make a bequest to Wet Nose Animal Rescue Centre in your will. All you need to do is to add a Codicil to an Existing Will and you need not re-write your entire will.

What you will need to do is to decide exactly how you would like to benefit Wet Nose in your will. This can be in the form of a fixed amount, a percentage of your estate, or specific items or property. What's more, by including Wet Nose in your will, you can fight

Before and After Floppy was confiscated from neglect and was soon fat and healthy again

Before & After
Wet Nose rescued Tigger from a house fire and she recovered to to be healthy and find a fantastic new home.

What a wonderful thought... that my love for animals can live forever!
